Shopping for Clothes (pt 2)

Tailor: Can I help you with anything?

Dave: Yes, I understand you do tailor-made clothes. I'm looking to get a coat made.

Tailor: Ok. Do you have any idea what sort of style you're after?

Dave: Something relatively smart. I was thinking of a $\frac{3}{4}$ length cashmere number.

Tailor: Right. Well, we have an extensive range of cashmere coats and fits, so why don't you have a look in our catalogue and see if anything jumps out at you.

(a little later)

Dave: Hi. Yes, I think something akin to this.

Tailor: Very good. What grade of fabric would you like?

Dave: I have no idea. What's the difference?

Tailor: This is the sample book. The first page is the highest quality, the second is the next...you get the picture. Most people opt for 1 or 2. And I'll need to take your measurements, if that's alright.

Dave: Of course, although I've put on a bit of weight recently.

Tailor: No problem: a good tailor's job is to hide that.
